

People

Following our commitment with ODS #5: Achieve gender equality and empower all women and girls, at Industria Chiquibul we have implemented our first irrigation valves project. The objective of this project is to involve women in the assembly of valves that will be used for irrigation mechanisms around our plantation. During this first initiative, more than 225 women were involved in the assembly of 600 valves in a period 45 days, involving women from surrounding communities. Providing women with decent work opportunities, and access to health care and education, we contribute to our goal to become a sustainable leader in the palm industry. At Industria Chiquibul, we believe that empowering women and respecting their rights are bases alligned to our purpose.

Planet

At Industria Chiquibul we are committed to good agricultural practices and environmental protection.

Multiple trainings are offered throughout the year for collaborators and neighboring communities to help people understand different agricultural procedures and correct equipment and material's use. In alliance with Agrequima, during the past month more than 250 applicators and 60 technicians were given the training and qualification in the responsible use and management of chemical products for crops' protection and nutrition.

Prosperity

Expanding our Family Garden's project, during the month of February families in the community of Tezulutlan II were included as part of this incentive. More than 300 sludge bags used as fertilizers and coriander seeds bags were delivered through families as part of our program to promote food security and women at home empowerment. As a company, we are committed to bring our neighboring communities' personal growth and economic opportunities with programs that support food security, infrastructure and connectivity, health, and education.
